

Randy Hall hails originally from New York, where he graduated from NYS College of Environmental Science and Forestry in 1983 (Syracuse). He moved to Washington to work in the big trees. Here Randy met his wife, a Kelso girl, and put down roots. Randy and his wife have two wonderful children: Erin, who works at West Rock, and Mark, who is in college.

After 1986, Randy began to work as a manufacturing supervisor; then eight years later, became a construction estimator and project manager. In 2017, Randy obtained his realtor's license and started a career in real estate.

Randy is currently the President of the Kelso Rotary Club and Chairman of the Rocky Mountain Elk Foundation. In his spare time, he enjoys reading, fishing, hunting, gardening, golf, and travel.
